2018 Bank of England stress test results

Barclays PLC ("Barclays") notes the publication today of stress test outcomes for UK banks by the Bank of England ("BoE"). Under the BoE’s assessment, Barclays passed the stress test with a 8.9% minimum stressed transitional Common Equity Tier 1 (“CET1”) ratio after taking account of strategic management actions including CRD IV distribution restrictions. Barclays therefore comfortably exceeded the stress test hurdle rate of 7.9%.

As a result, Barclays continues to target an end-state CET1 ratio of c.13%. It remains Barclays’ intention to pay a 2018 dividend of 6.5p, subject to regulatory approvals.

2018 is the first year that IFRS9 has been incorporated into the stress-testing results. This non-transitional stress test will evolve and be refined in future periods as IFRS9 continues to embed. The BoE assesses banks’ performance on a transitional basis for IFRS9 but, for transparency purposes, has today also published the stress test results on a non-transitional basis. Under this assessment, Barclays’ minimum stressed non-transitional CET1 ratio was 6.5%, after taking account of the strategic management actions in this year’s stress test including CRD IV distribution restrictions. As noted today by the BoE, the 2018 non-transitional hurdle rate of 7.0% is hypothetical and subject to change in future years.

The minimum stressed transitional UK Tier 1 leverage ratio of 3.9%, after taking account of strategic management actions including CRD IV distribution restrictions, also exceeded the 2019 transitional stress test hurdle rate of 3.61%. The minimum stressed non-transitional UK Tier 1 leverage ratio is 3.2%. The 2018 hypothetical non-transitional stress test hurdle rate was 3.25%.

The UK Prudential Regulatory Authority ("PRA") has also confirmed, as part of its Individual Capital Guidance (ICG) and as incorporated into this stress test assessment, that Barclays’ CET1 Pillar 2A requirement has reduced from £8.4 billion in 2017 to £8.3 billion in 2018. The decrease in RWAs from £366 billion as at 31 December 2016 to £313 billion as at 31 December 2017 results in an increase from 2019 in the Pillar 2A requirement expressed as a proportion of RWAs, from 2.4% to 2.6%.

Subsequent to the update to the Pillar 2A requirement, Barclays’ end state CET1 ratio target is currently 130 basis points above the expected end state mandatory distribution restriction hurdle of 11.7%.
